German author searching for a foreign publisher of the novel "The Degrees of Love"

Plot: After a horror-marriage Norbert Telling changes his management-career with the role of an alone-educating father. In a witty and optimistic way he and his little daughter manage their troubles of everyday-life. During his fateful search of true love Norbert meets a mysterious woman called Felicitas, who also is a single parent. Their bright future seems to be perfect and a deep relationship, a patchwork-family situation included, begins. But soon dark clouds appear over the paradise, which is struck by a curse: Particulary Felizitas is carrying deep wounds from her former relationships. But Norbert does not think of giving up Felicitas, not even, when he discovers her secret, and as love demands big sacrifices from him. A dramatic struggle begins – for love and against jealousy, for dignity and honor, for excessive moments and for safety in a family. |

Review:

"The Degrees of Love" shows living and loving of two modern individuals during their search of fortune in an impressive manner. An example of prudent, humorous and authentic postmodern literature, especially for romantic and bibliophile readers. A fantastic-realistic journey into the soul of a hearty loving man with ambition.

Commentary:

Just another novel about love? – More than that! Living, feeling and suffering at the classical grades of love – Eros, Philo and Agape. This thrilling book is a remedy for injuries caused by separation and divorce.- Genuine literature.
